

Shining a light on the transition from Late Iron Age to Early Roman SE England

Saturday 8th May 2021

Surrey Archaeological Society conference by Zoom

Take the opportunity to hear leaders in their field of study discuss the latest thinking on how the Late Iron Age way of life in SE England changed under Roman influence from the 1st century BC to the 2nd century AD

Tickets £5 Book online at

<https://www.surreyarchaeology.org.uk/content/shining-a-light-on-the-transition-from-late-iron-age-to-early-roman-se-england-zoom>

9.30 Registration (Participants are urged to log on well before 10.00)

10.00 Welcome (David Bird, Roman Studies Group, Surrey Archaeological Society)

10.05 Chair, Paul Booth, Research Associate, University of Oxford, Introductory remarks

10.15 Thomas Matthews Boehmer, Doctoral Student University of Cambridge, Between method and theory: the challenges of studying identity in Late Iron Age and early Roman Britain

10.50 Discussion

11.00 Refreshments

11.15 Tom Brindle, Post-Excavation Manager, Cotswold Archaeology, First (Century) Impressions: appearance, coin-use and communication in south-east Britain beyond the Roman Conquest

11.50 Discussion

12.00 Anna Doherty (with input from Louise Rayner), Senior Ceramicist, Archaeology South-East, UCL, Location, location, location: exploring variability in LIA-Roman pottery assemblages through case studies from SE England

12.35 Discussion

12.45 Lunch (a programme of slides will run as a display across the break)

13.30 Tony King, Professor Emeritus, University of Winchester, Celtic to Romano-Celtic? The archaeology of religious sites in SE Britain, 1st century BC to 2nd century AD.

14.05 Discussion

14.15 Martyn Allen, Senior Project Manager, Oxford Archaeology, 'Two shakes of a lamb's tail': a zooarchaeological perspective of the Iron Age/Romano-British transition in south-east England

14.50 Discussion

15.00 Refreshments

15.15 David Rudling, Honorary Research Fellow University of Roehampton, 'Becoming Roman?' The Late Iron Age to Early Roman transition in Sussex

15.50 Discussion

16.00 Mike Fulford, Professor of Archaeology University of Reading, Silchester: from Iron Age oppidum to Roman City

16.35 Discussion

16.45 Chair Summing up and final discussion

17.00 Thanks and close