

Stand and Deliver! Your Money or your Life!

Saturday 11 February - 1pm to 2.30pm

The dreaded word highwayman was first used in the year 1617. Striking fear in the hearts of travellers — other names included 'knights of the road' and 'gentlemen of the road'.

These robbers operated in Britain from Elizabethan times until the early 19th century. Robbing the rich, but not often giving to the poor, they were the scourge of the roads. Meet a highwayman evading the law and hear their side of the story. Decide for yourself if they were gentlemen or just villains? Little mercy was shown to those that were caught, many came to a horrible end on the gallows — including one from Epsom!

Entry £5 per child (includes 1 accompanying adult)
