COUNCIL NEWS

Rosamond Hanworth

This is not a "Goodbye" — far from it — but just a word of appreciation. With the formal retirement from the Honorary Editorship at last November's AGM and the publication of Vol 81 of the Collections, Lady Hanworth completes an outstanding and unique period as an officer of the Society. Any attempt to catalogue the many roles she has played would certainly leave something out, so many and various have been her activities on our behalf. We can only praise her distinction, envy her energy and express the Society's deep gratitude for all that she has done for us and for the world of archaeology. We are also grateful that, as a Vice-President, Rosamond will still be a member of Council and that her advice and wisdom will continue to be available to the Society. (DJT)

At its first meeting following the AGM, Council unanimously co-opted Mr M J Alexander, Dr D G Bird and Mr M S Dawson as members of Council for one year.

South Park Moat. Work continues on this project and Council is pleased to report that English Heritage has agreed to provide 100% grants for certain works presently estimated at £20,000 and be paid in this financial year. Planned work includes silt removal from the ditches, construction of a sluice, culvert, bridge, path and erection of a fence and information board.

Treasure Trove. The Bill continues to make steady progress through its many preliminary stages and discussions have taken place with the Department of English Heritage. David Graham attended a meeting, with Lord Perth, of the all party Parliamentary Heritage Group which had strongly supported a reform of the law.

Tunsgate Appeal. In response to a request from Guildford Museum for a grant towards the report of the post-medieval pottery recovered from Tunsgate, Guildford, Council unanimously agreed, in view of the national importance and closely dated nature of the find to grant the remainder of its grant allocation for the year to Guildford Museum for this purpose.

Guildford Castle Training Excavation — Fourth Season. 5th-25th July inclusive. Application form enclosed.

OBITUARY

MISS J A COWIE

It is with great sadness that we record the death of 'Jac', as she was familiarly known, at the age of 86. On moving to Guildford on her retirement, 'Jac' joined a WEA course in Archaeology in 1967, following which — at a time of life when most people put their feet up — she energetically participated in the formation of the Guildford Group of the SAS.

She loved people and organising and was above all a great communicator; she became joint local secretary for Guildford; a tireless 'volunteer' in the Margary Room, she served on the Library Committee: her indefatigable interest led her to form working parties to catalogue the treasures lying unremembered at the old Guildford Institute, and this in turn to her serving on the Members' Committee, following the launch of the rejuvenated Guildford Institute of the University of Surrey.

No event or activity took place without Jac appearing, thoughtfully bearing hot cookies or her famous fudge, a tin of which — in the guise of Roman mosaic and often replenished — kept up the spirits of those who toiled in the muddy trenches at Wanborough.

Her diverse background from her upbringing on a farm in Scotland, the influence of her kinsman, the painter James Cowie, her experience teaching both in Soweto and St Pauls School perhaps explain her unique aptitude to involve herself and to successfully develop her talents in new ways. She was part of a small team who processed the finds from the excavation at Brooklands Weybridge, when she learnt the technique of drawing finds to publication standard, and the reports of that site and some subsequent ones in the Collections, bear witness to her skills.

After retiring as local secretary she was made an Honorary Member of the Society. The latter years of her life were devoted to caring for others and it was fitting that in 1992 she was allocated a flat at Abbots Hospital, founded by George Abbot in 1619 specifically for single townsmen or women who had given special service to Guildford. Sadly she was able to enjoy its special calm for only a few months before she died on the 10th January.

Her loyalty, support and above all her friendship will be missed by many. (AJM)

Thursday 27th May 1993

arranged by K W E Gravett, FSA and Josephine Carter (Tel: 0483 505502)

Coach pick-up points:

- 9.00 am Dorking — Mole Valley Council Offices, Pippbrook, opposite Dorking Halls.
- 9.20 am Reigate — Red Cross Public House at the junction of West Street, High Street and Park Lane.
- 10.30 am Coffee at the Spout House, Plaxtol, which is not normally open to the public, by invitation of Mr John Constable. It is an early 16th century timber frame house jettied only at one of the short ends. Pevsner describes it as 'an unusually comprehensible example of the type'. We will go on to the interesting 17th century Plaxtol Church and Old Soar Manor (National Trust in the guardianship of English Heritage). This is the complete Solar end of a stone house of 1290, where there is an exhibition.
- The lunch interval will be in Ightam village, where there are two public houses, or sandwiches may be eaten in the Square.
- 2.00 pm Visit to Ightam Church, chiefly memorable for its interesting monuments, including Dame Dorothy Selby and a good introduction to
- 3.00 pm Ightam Mote, a medieval moated manor house circa 1340. Since the National Trust have taken over, they have undertaken large scale repairs. ## Visit to Greensted Church, Ingatestone Hall & the Essex History Fair at Waltham Abbey

Sunday, 13th June 1993

arranged by Josephine Carter (Tel: 0483 505502)

Coach Pick up Points:

- 8.00 am Guildford — rear entrance of Guildford BR Station in Guildford Park Road
- 8.10 am Chilworth New Road by the notice warning of the level crossing
- 8.12 am Albury Park Gate
- 8.30 am DORKING — Mole Valley Council Offices, Pippbrook, opposite Dorking Halls
- 8.45 am REIGATE — Red Cross Public House at junction of West Street, High Street and Park Lane

In the morning we will visit St Andrew's Church, Greensted, described as "the oldest wooden church in the world". It probably dates from about 1013, when the Danish invaders of 1010 were repulsed. St Edmund's body, which had been hidden in London during their stay, was returned to Bury St Edmunds. On the way, it rested at Greensted. In the Church today are herbs and books about them for sale.

Break for lunch in Ingatestone. It is advisable to take picnics as there is only one pub open on Sundays — The Bell (lunch £6.95, one course £4.95).

1.00 pm Assemble at Ingatestone Hall, the home of the Petre family for four and a half centuries. It was first opened to the public in 1991. The house was built in 1540 and after 1570 two priest's hiding places were constructed, one with a hatch hidden in a fireplace for food supply.

In 1535 a young lawyer from Devon, William Petre, was proctor to Thomas Cromwell surveying the monastic houses of Southern England. He found that Barking Nunnery held land at Ginge ad Petram or Yenge atte Stone. The manor was purchased for £849.12s.6d. Pope Paul IV absolved him from an Interdict of Excommunication if he endowed almshouses for the poor. Such almshouses, not on the original site, are still in Ingatestone High Street.

The house was one of the first domestic buildings to have piped water and flushing drains.

2.15 pm Rejoin coach to drive to Lee Valley Park at Waltham Abbey, which was founded by Henry II as a penance for the death of Thomas a Becket. This is the site of the Essex History Fair, held biennially. We greatly enjoyed the last one, held at Maldon. I believe tea will be available on the site.

5.00 pm Leave for home.

TICKETS: Members £14.50; OAP members £14.00; Students £6.50; Non-members £15.50; OAP non-members £15.00 to include coach, gratuities, entrance fees and donations, but not morning coffee (available at Thurrock Service Station). Please send SAE with cheque (SAS Visits Committee) to Mr David Evans, 48 Guildford Park Road, Guildford, GU2 5NF. Kindly include your phone number and indicate where you will join the coach.

NOTES

16, Tunsgate, Guildford

Following the appeal sent out with the November Bulletin, Guildford Museum has received £647 from members — all from individuals except for one local archaeological society. We are very pleased with the result, and very grateful to everyone who contributed. The donations will go directly towards the research and writing up of the site, which will be published in late 1993 or early 1994.

A postcard of a group of finds from the site and a T-shirt showing drawings of the finds are on sale at the Museum to raise money for the publication. The postcard was sponsored by Manpower, who now occupy 16, Tunsgate. It costs 15 pence. The T-shirt costs £5.95.

The Discovery of further Prehistoric, Roman and Medieval remains near Grange Road, Runfold

Graham Hayman
Field Officer

Surrey County Archaeological Unit

Following the discovery and excavation of two sites on the northern side of Grange Road, near Runfold, in an area threatened by the Blackwater Valley road system, further evaluation work led to the discovery of another site some 700m to the north east of these. This site, also lying on the northern side of Grange Road (opposite Springfield Cottages), was excavated between 1 and 22 December by staff of the Surrey County Archaeological Unit.

The site lay within an area of raised ground surrounded by slightly lower-lying terrain which may have been less favourable for settlement in periods of wet weather — certainly trial trenching away from the higher ground revealed no features of archaeological interest. The features excavated were similar to those encountered on the previous two sites and consisted of ditches, post-holes, pits and one small four-posted structure. A considerable chronological range of material was discovered and provisional dating of the pottery indicates that features of Neolithic, Bronze Age, Iron Age, Roman and Medieval date were present; a small number of Saxon sherds were also discovered. The quantity of pottery discovered suggests that the site area (or immediate vicinity) was used for settlement purposes in the Roman and medieval periods and, given the favourable topography mentioned above, this may well have been the case in other periods.

Although the dig was of quite short duration an impressive quantity of finds, principally pottery sherds but including pieces of brick and tile, fragments of quern stone, bone and pieces of struck flint, was recovered. At the time of writing these finds are still being processed but a provisional examination has indicated that the Roman and medieval pottery might be of above average interest — sherds which may be wasters from pottery production have been identified for both periods, and sherds of imported wares including Samian and, more interestingly, occasional glazed pieces have been found amongst the Roman material.

A more detailed interpretation of this site would be best delayed until the finds processing work has been completed. Further evaluation work (away from the road line but in the same general area) is due to begin in the second half of January and it is possible that additional sites will be discovered as a result.

PUBLICATIONS

"A History of Ewell" by Charles Abdy, 1992. This is a book which achieves very well what the author, in his introduction, says that he is offering — namely, to present "snapshots of the past", verbal and photographic, of aspects of the history of Ewell within the old parish boundaries. Mr Abdy has drawn mainly on published works about Ewell, including the Occasional Papers published by the Nonsuch Antiquarian Society, to produce a well-presented collection of snapshots, starting with a reference to Mesolithic settlement in the area, and continuing into the twentieth century. His book brings together a great deal of information, whether supported by evidence or merely rumoured, and it is therefore valuable as a reference book although under "Roman Ewell" one would have liked to see mention of Frank Pemberton's "A Romano-British Settlement on Stane Street, Ewell, Surrey" (Vol. 69 (1973) of the Surrey Archaeological Collections). The illustrations are plentiful and varied and they enhance still further Mr Abdy's reputation as a skilled photographer. His style is easy, and he proves that a straightforward narrative can be just as lively as the old men's tales which played a part in Cloudesley Willis' "A Short History of Ewell and Nonsuch". Mr Abdy's book should find a place on many bookshelves, not only in Ewell but wherever an interest in local history flourishes. Published by Phillimore and Co Ltd, Shopwyke Hall, Chichester, West Sussex PO20 6QB. Price £12.95. ISBN 0 85033 840 9.

“The Heritage of North Cyprus” by Rosamond Hanworth, with photographs by George Pollock. From the Neolithic period down to the present day, the beautiful island of Cyprus has been influenced, and often conquered, by people of over twenty different nations or cultures. Concentrating on the Turkish north, this carefully researched book tells the fascinating story and guides the reader to the many surviving remains. Fully illustrated with maps, drawings, 89 photographs in colour and 37 in monochrome, and endowed with comprehensive Index and Bibliography. Available from the Office of the London Representative, Turkish Republic of North Cyprus, 28 Cockspur Street, London SW1Y 5BN, price £22.75, including packing and postage, cheques payable to The Tourism Office, T.R.N.C. Please allow three weeks for delivery.

“The Whiteley Homes Trust” by Alan Brown, published by Phillimore, 1992, 192 pp, 50 illus, hardback, £12.50. William Whiteley, a Yorkshireman whose business in Bayswater developed into a large department store, left £1 million at his death in 1907 to purchase a site ‘for the erection of buildings for aged poor persons.’

This book, which is based on archival sources, provides an account of the foundation and building of the village, on land between Weybridge and Cobham, and of the Trust by which it is administered. A fuller review will appear later in the Collections.

MISCELLANY

Historical Research. Many members of the Society and member Societies are engaged in historical research and Mr Marix Evans of Wonersh has suggested that the Bulletin could be a valuable focus for the exchange of information. "To start the ball rolling", he writes, "he has just completed a study of the history of Great Tangley Manor, Wonersh, from the earliest times to the present. But such a project is never finished and if any member has any original material which he would be willing to contribute or discuss." Mr Matrix Evans can be reached at Great Tangley Manor West, Wonersh, Guildford, GU5 0PT.

(I would be happy to include any such items or requests for information. Details should be sent to me at the address given at the end of the Bulletin, or to Castle Arch, and they will be included as space permits. Hon Editor)
